“ Aunt Hazel was very sweet to me and my family. We stayed at her home and enjoyed reminiscing about family history. She was a very warm and welcoming person. Her home was beautiful and her cooking very delicious. I received many recipes from her and loved cooking in the kitchen with her. I will always treasure her love.

“ As a very young child in the 1970's I spent several summers afternoons visiting with Hazel and Clyde (I think) her husband whom passed so many years back. These two were friends of Henry Dickenson and my Grandmother on my fathers side, and extended family to me.

Hazel always seemed so energetic and full of fire! Her house and land they lived on seemed so vast to me. I know that somehow Ive learned life lessons from her. While she was not directly related to me, she always treated me so kindly and made me feel at home, like family as a young kid growing up back then. I tend to believe she was that way with everyone.

I looked forward to my walks down to her house, and playing in the cornfields behind their home, as well walking along the riverbed across the road and listening to her many stories.. She will always be in my thoughts and I know I carry a part of her wherever I go.
